Current Situation

Pakistan is facing one of the worst flood emergencies in its history, with farmland, villages, and entire communities under water. The heavy monsoon rains, made worse by changing weather patterns, have hit key regions including Buner, Swat, Shangla, Gilgit-Baltistan, Eastern Punjab, Sindh, and Khyber-Pakhtunkhwa. In Punjab alone, rainfall was 26.5 percent higher than last year, leaving fields and homes submerged.

Official reports show that 42 districts have been declared calamity-stricken. So far, 1,008 people have lost their lives and 1,216 have been injured. Over one million people in Punjab and another 0.6 million in Sindh have been evacuated. Many are staying in camps or with relatives, but thousands are still stranded without shelter and waiting for help. The floods have damaged/destroyed 12,574 houses, affected more than 680 schools, and killed over 8,000 livestock, adding to the loss of livelihoods.

The economic damage is immense. The overall cost of the 2025 floods is estimated at more than Rs. 500 billion (1.7 billion US dollars). Agriculture has suffered the hardest blow, with losses of about Rs. 302 billion (1 billion US dollars), nearly three-fourths of the total. About 1.3 million acres of farmland, much of it in Punjab, are now underwater. This destruction has left farming families without income and threatens food security for millions of people across the country.
